

JOINT ELECTORAL MANAGEMENT BODY

Regulation on Political Campaign Finances

Article 1: Legal Basis and Purpose of this regulation

This Regulation is adopted pursuant to Articles 16.3, 39.2, and 61 of the Electoral Law. It shall govern the financing of the political campaign for the 2004 Presidential Elections.

Article 2: Interpretation

For the purposes of this regulation:

- (i) “In-Kind Contribution” means a contribution of materials, use of facilities, or professional services of non-military nature and which are not owned by the State, that is not paid for by the candidate or the respective campaign;
- (ii) “Independent Candidates” means individuals running for election without political party sponsorship or endorsement;
- (iii) “Market Value” means the price normally charged for similar goods or services on the open market;
- (iv) “Political Party” means an organization registered as such by the Ministry of Justice in accordance with the Law on Political Parties;
- (v) “Political campaign” means the period in which candidates for the elections and their parties carry out activities aimed at securing votes as stipulated in Article 39 of the Electoral Law;
- (vi) “Public Resources” means funds, materials, equipment, services, or movable or immovable property belonging to or controlled by any government entity at any level, including the free distribution of goods or services for social purposes, or staff time of public employees;

Article 3: General Provisions Regarding Campaign Contributions and Expenditures

- (i) Presidential candidates shall have the right to accept financial contributions and/or donations from Afghan citizens or Afghan organizations.
- (ii) Presidential candidates may contribute personal resources to their campaigns, subject to the same limits and reporting provisions as if the contribution were from another individual.
- (iii) All contributions are to be deposited into a bank account established specifically for the election campaign.

- (iv) Each Afghan citizen or organization may contribute up to two million Afghani to a campaign or candidate per campaign period.
- (v) The identity of any individual or organization contributing more than Afg1000 to a candidate's campaign shall be recorded and reported to the JEMB.
- (vi) Candidates shall file reports of their income and expenditures with the JEMB in the form included as Annex 1 on 21 September and 5 October. In case of a second round, additional reports shall be filed on 2 November and 16 November.
- (vii) Monthly bank statements showing campaign income and expenditures should be forwarded by the candidate within three days of their arrival to the Joint Electoral Management Body.
- (viii) In-kind contributions from Afghan individuals or organizations must be reported to the Joint Electoral Management Body at their market value at the time of the first report following receipt of the in-kind contribution.
- (ix) Acceptance of contributions, whether financial or in-kind, from foreign sources shall be strictly prohibited.
- (x) Receipt of funds from illegal sources shall be strictly prohibited.
- (xi) No government employee or contractor shall be solicited for any type of political contribution by a superior or any other individual with influence over that employee or contractor's status or remuneration, nor shall the making of any political contribution to whatever candidate or campaign or any uncoordinated expenditure be a factor in the retention, promotion, or salary consideration of such employee or contractor.

Article 4: Public Resources

- (i) Public resources shall not be used for electoral campaign purposes except as part of a program to benefit all candidates without discrimination under the oversight of the Joint Electoral Management Body or as provided below.
